Locomotive Breaks Eccentric
Which Holds Up Train at Paper Mill.

The Portsmouth and Somersworth freight in charge of conductor E. W. Baker, and Engineer Albert Ham leaving here at 7:22 this morning got as far as the paper mill on the Portsmouth and Dover Branch when it suddenly came to a standstill by the breaking of an eccentric on the locomotive. A switcher from the yard was sent out to haul the train back, and a spare engine put on to move the train to its destination. The accident caused no delay in traffic on the branch.

MUST DROP FLOOR. Ruling of License Commission Is Expensive for Saloon Keeper.

To comply with the ruling of the license commission is sometimes expensive as in the case of Raphael Paola, the proprietor of a saloon at the corner of Deer and Market streets. The commission decided that there is too many steps leading up to the front door of this saloon and accordingly ordered him to come down on the street level. To do this he has been put to the expense of digging out a large ledge in the cellar, and obliged to drop the floor of the room two and a half feet.

THE LATEST NEWS.

The new police commissioner has not been appointed yet, the Indian has not returned, but Tom Leekey is still wearing that knowing smile, and selling Christmas pipes, cigars and tobacco at the same old stand, 29 Congress street.

M. J. HURLEY IS APPOINTED CITY MARSHAL

Takes Place of Marshal Entwistle--
Patrolman Ducker Made
Deputy Marshal.

Deputy Marshal Michael J. Hurley will succeed City Marshal Thomas Entwistle, and Patrolman George H. Ducker, will succeed Deputy Marshal Hurley. These two promotions were announced by the Board of Police Commissioners after meeting on Thursday afternoon.

The appointments are popular and they meet with the approval of the citizens in general. Deputy Marshal Hurley was the logical successor of Marshal Entwistle and he has been the choice of everybody. Recommended by Marshal Entwistle as his successor and by the citizens committee. He is too well known to need any introduction to the people of Portsmouth. He has been connected with the police department for the past twenty-five years and no officer has been more efficient or more popular than he.

Fearless and cool at all times, he has made an ideal officer. He has been deputy marshal for a number of years. The new deputy marshal George H. Ducker has been on the police department as patrolman for a number of years, and he has a very fine record.

He is a good officer with all kinds of courage and fearlessness in the performance of his duty. Both appointments will take effect.

HOLDS HICKEY RESPONSIBLE

Buffalo Prisoner Little Interested in Trial Which Goes to the Jury this Noon

Buffalo, Dec. 19.—Before tomorrow night, J. Frank Hickey, on trial for the murder of 7 year old Joseph Joseph of Lackawanna in October, 1911, probably will know his fate. The prosecution rested its case this morning, and before court adjourned the attorneys had had their battle. Tomorrow morning even side will argue and the case will probably be in the jury's hands at noon.

The statement made to the jury today was read to the jury today and offered in evidence. Beginning with the killing of the boy in a Lowell drug store, when Hickey was 17 years old it told of the prisoner's subsequent employment in the Lowell Y. M. C. A. of which he was assistant of a chief secretary for a time. Then he worked on a newspaper in Lowell.

The statement then went on to tell of an attempt in Boston to asphyxiate Harry Bennett and John Martin and to end his own life. When the attempt failed he tried to take cyanide of potassium. Then the jury heard Hickey's own story of the slaying of the Joseph boy and writing the Boston postcards that resulted in his capture.

Tomorrow Hickey's case will be given to the jury as one in which there is no doubt as to the degeneracy of the accused. All the attorneys today agreed on that, and while all of them agreed too, that he was abnormal, three of them swore that he knew the nature and quality of his act, and knew that it was wrong, which is the test of responsibility under the law. Two experts representing the defense, while admitting the belief that Hickey knew what he was doing when he was killing the boy, declared their opinion that he did not know at the time that it was wrong.

A procedure that is now in Buffalo courts was the calling to the stand of Justice Brown's own expert and his examination by the justice himself. The appointment of Dr. Nairn was known to both sides and in the examination Justice Brown was eminently fair to both sides. Neither side objected to Dr. Nairn testifying.

Dr. Nairn then gave it as his opinion that there was no doubt that Hickey was sane when he killed the Joseph boy. This was the first positive opinion given by an expert.

The defense rested its case at 3:40 o'clock. Hickey appeared decidedly nervous when the prosecution in rebuttal called Dr. James W. Putnam. "What do you say Hickey's condition was at the time of the crime?" asked Mr. Dudley.

"I should say that he was in a state of murder lust, controlled by a compelling impulse satisfied by nothing but murder," declared the physician in a distinct voice. "He knew the nature of this death and he knew what he did was wrong."

Dr. Nelson W. Wilson, another insanity expert was then summoned to the stand. He practically corroborated Dr. Putnam's

FOR RELEASE OF MISS FARMER

Proceedings Will Be Brought in New Hampshire.

Proceedings will be brought at once by Judge Aaron A. Cole of Eliot in the United States court in New Hampshire for the release of Miss Sarah J. Farmer of Eliot, who is at present an inmate of the private sanitarium of Dr. Jewell in this city, where she was placed by Edward Ginn of Boston, Mass., who on September 3, this year, was appointed guardian of Miss Farmer in New Hampshire. The proceedings to be brought will be habeas corpus, and it is expected that there will be a warm fight over the woman leaving the institution and the state. All of Miss Farmer's property is at Eliot, where Miss Farmer was one of the promoters of Greenacre.

In the York county probate court, held in Hildesford Tuesday and Wednesday, George E. Hammond of Eliot was appointed guardian of Miss Farmer on petition of Miss Marguerita B. Rogers, of York Beach, a cousin of Miss Farmer. A hearing which took up the greater part of two days was held before Judge Hobbs.

In appointing Mr. Hammond and dismissing the petition of Edward Ginn of Boston, who requested that he be appointed guardian in Maine, Judge Hobbs said he was not satisfied with the surroundings of the unfortunate woman at Portsmouth. He further stated that the parties who were responsible made a great mistake when they refused relatives of Miss Farmer permission to see the woman when they called at the sanitarium, while others were allowed to visit her.

Attorney W. S. Mathews, who, with Judge Adams of Portsmouth, appeared for Mr. Ginn, announced that he should enter an appeal and requested that he be given sufficient time in which to prepare his reasons and also file a bond.

"You can have twenty days for such preparation," replied Judge Hobbs. Attorney Mathews did not know whether it could be done in that time. Judge Hobbs said it was the time limited by the statutes and he had no authority to extend it.

Mr. Mathews said he could prepare his appeal in time, but was not certain about the bond.

It has been learned that Mr. Ginn who petitioned to be appointed guardian of Miss Farmer in Maine, left a week ago Monday on a trip to Egypt, and it is not known when he will return.

Relatives of Miss Farmer are anxious to have the woman released from the sanitarium in this city and taken back to her home in Eliot, where they believe she could be cared for as well as in Portsmouth.

CONGRESS ADJOURNS

Will Convene Again Jan. 2 and Wrangle Over Confirmations be Resumed

Washington, Dec. 19.—Congress adjourned for the Christmas holidays today after some lively maneuvering to get President Taft's message into the Record, secure action on the President's recent appointments and bring proceedings in the Archbold impeachment trial to a point where they may be disposed of early in January.

The House was unable to get a quorum and adjourned after a 17 minute session without even having received the President's message.

The message waited for four hours to secure entrance into the senate. When that body convened at noon the Republican senators asked for immediate consideration again of their demand for an executive session to take up appointments.

The Democrats consented to the plan and until the impeachment trial automatically took the floor at 1:30 o'clock the senate fought over the filing of the Presidential offices, with the debate carried on behind tightly closed doors.

It was not until the impeachment court adjourned at about 4 o'clock that the President's message was received and read.

Both Houses adjourned to Thursday, Jan. 2. The senate sitting as a court of impeachment will reconvene Friday. The House Money Trust Committee, winding up its session with J. P. Morgan at 3:30 adjourned until 2 o'clock Monday, January 6.

Practically all business of Congress will stand in abeyance throughout the recess and a majority of the members will leave Washington.

The senate confirmed but one appointment that of John H. Brown as postmaster at Concord, N. H., in the hour and a half of executive debate.

No action was taken on the reappointment of Edgar F. Clark whose term as interstate commerce commissioner expires Dec. 31.

Senator Hoke Smith acting for many democrats, offered a resolution for the confirmation of army and navy appointments, but the Republican senators insisted at starting at the head of the list for the consideration of postmasters.

Objections by senator Hitchcock, Democrat that the postoffice appointments had not received consideration by the full membership of the postoffice committee, drew the declaration from senator Lodge, that if this point was forced, it would be embarrassing throughout the administration of Woodrow Wilson.

Senator Lodge declared that the senate had always followed the precedent of confirming postoffice appointments on recommendation of the sub committees or individual senators to which they were referred. Senator Hitchcock finally withdrew his objections but no action was taken on any of the other postoffice appointments.

Figures presented by Senator Smoot to show that in previous changes of administration that the senate had always confirmed the appointments of the retiring Presidents met a sharp reply from senator Hoke Smith. He declared that President Taft had sent more than 1300 appointments to the senate during three weeks of this session, while President Cleveland sent in but 400 appointments during the whole three months of the last congress of the first Cleveland term.

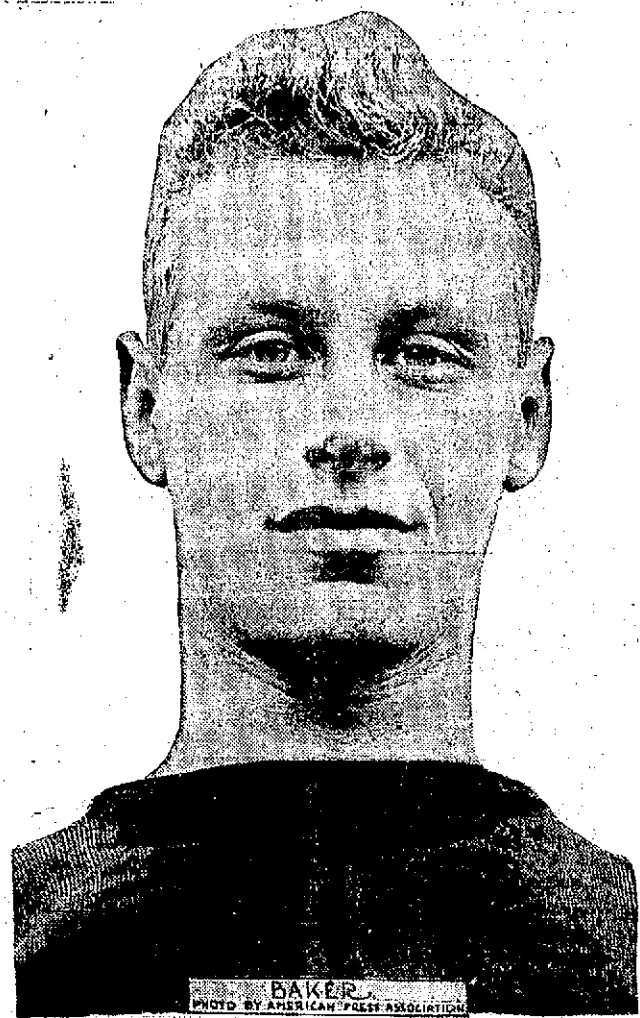

VOGUE FOR LAVENDER.

Who does not love the faint perfume of lavender flowers? In past generations the delicate purple blossoms, dried in the sun, were used almost entirely by our grandmothers for perfuming their fine linen, their gowns and even their hats.

Linon chests were not complete without their small bags of lavender laid in between the folds of tablecloths and napery.

Chests wherein all the lovely hand-made linens were kept, where the prospective bride stored the articles of her trousseau as they were finished, one by one, were plentifully supplied with lavender blossoms tied up in neat little linen bags.

Benefited Many Who Had Lung Trouble

Those who suffer from Consumption are generally troubled with night sweats, fever, loss of strength, and little or no appetite. Fresh air, good food and the proper care of the body are essential to a recovery, but in some cases something more is needed. Eckman's Alternative is a medicine that has been most successful in stopping night sweats, reducing fever and promoting appetite, and many who have used it declare that it saved their lives. Investigate what it did in this case:

"Gentlemen: For four years I was troubled with cough, which gradually became worse. I had night sweats and pains in my chest, was losing my appetite and had become so thin and weak I could not attend to my household duties. A physician pronounced my case Consumption. Not being satisfied I was examined by physicians of the Polytechnic Hospital. They also pronounced the disease Consumption which was proven later by an examination of sputum, as Tuberculosis was found. I was ordered to a Consumptive hospital. My nephew would not allow me to go until I had tried Eckman's Alternative. Before I had taken the medicine three weeks, I had marked relief, night sweats ceased, pain in the breast relieved, cough became loose, and easy, fever left me and I commenced getting well. My health became normal. I am in excellent health now and have been completely cured for ten years. I strongly recommend it."

The sudden jump of seven cents a gallon in the price of gasoline is a serious matter to the owners of motor boats, and many will endeavor to adapt their engines to the use of kerosene, until the price of this, too, soars beyond bounds. By the way, this would seem to be a proper time to again agitate the matter of denatured alcohol, which we were assured not long since, was to be produced at a figure that would drive gasoline from the market.

The next meeting of the Good Luck Whist Club will occur at the home of Mrs. Luther Lewis.

Let it be remembered that every dollar spent in patronizing a home enterprise adds to the prosperity of our little city and with the growth of our city's prosperity comes the increase in value of real estate.

Closely Matched.

The tug of war team from the Portsmouth Brewing Co. defeated the championship team from the U. S. S. San Francisco on Thursday evening in a fine match at Freeman's hall in two straight pulls. The heavy team from the Brewery got the jump on the sailors in both pulls, and were able to hold this advantage.

There was a good crowd present, including many of the crew of the ship over to back up their team.

There were two matches between the first teams and the second teams and the latter gave a very fine exhibition of pulling.

They went down four times and the match was declared; both teams having won one pull each and were twice tied. It was the best exhibition of pulling ever seen in this city and many of the spectators believed the second team of the San Francisco would have been the best team to put against the first team of brewery men.

The make up of the teams was: Portsmouth Brewing Co. first team, O'Brien Anchor, O'Keefe, Moynahan and Cronin.

San Francisco first team, Rutland,

Anchor, Wood, Hineman and Chalmers.

The second teams were as follows: Portsmouth Brewing Co. Reagan anchor, Connors, Sullivan and Buckley; San Francisco Troyer anchor, Bibby, Greenbaum and Carlson.

The officials were: Referee, James Coughlin, Judges: Oskar Alchell and E. R. Perkins. Timer, Karl Fink, announcer, Dr. S. P. A. Pickering.

Following the matches the winning team were challenged by the team from Fort Constitution.

HOUSE ADJOURNS TO JAN. 2.

Senate Remains in Session and President's Message Sent to It, But Is Held Back.

Washington, Dec. 19.—The House today adjourned for the Christmas holiday recess until Jan. 2, without receiving President Taft's message. The message, however, was sent to the Senate, which remained in session. The Senate, before the message was delivered to it, went into executive session to consider President Taft's appointments, confirmation of which had been held up by the Democrats. The result of the session was one confirmation that of John H. Brown on postmaster at Concord, N. H.

Then the Senate went into session as a court of impeachment to continue the trial of Judge Archbold of the Commerce Court. If the Senate does not receive the message today it will go over until Jan. 2.

THE WIDE CHOICE IN HATS

Millinery daily grows more momentous. It is a subject that can be dwelt upon and nausium and then the most interesting bit left out. Looking back it is impossible to find a period when so Catholic a choice reigned in headgear. Frankly, there is choice for all. Some days it seems as though every second woman one meets is wearing the little full crowned hat of velvet, with a narrow brim, and the next day some picturesque shape of silk beaver will be wholly in evidence.

AMBASSADOR'S

QUARTER DECK

Portsmouth, Eng., Dec. 19.—The British armored cruiser Natal was moored this morning alongside the jetty in the dockyard, in readiness to convey the body of the late Ambassador Whitelaw Reid from England to America, after the great memorial service has been held at Westminster Abbey on Friday.

A host of carpenters and decorators immediately on the vessel's arrival, began constructing a mortuary chapel on the quarter deck, in which the coffin will rest during the voyage.

The warship will sail early on Saturday, and naval honors will be paid to the dead ambassador as the cruiser pulls to sea. She will fly her colors at half-mast throughout the voyage. The armored cruiser Natal was completed in 1907. She is of 13,550 tons displacement, is 420 feet long, has a 6-inch armor belt carries six 9.2 inch and four 7.5 inch guns, and had a trial trip speed of 23.98 knots.

Following the work refreshments were served in the banquet hall.

EGGS TAKE A DROP

Washington, Dec. 18.—Early stirring housewives rubbed their eyes in surprise today when entering Centre Market they discovered signs over baskets piled high with eggs announcing that the price of the breakfast table commodity had been dropped to twenty two cents a dozen. The sharp cut in price followed a meeting last night of fourteen of the most important, butter, cheese, and eggs dealers in the market at which it was decided the price now could be reduced. The dealers frankly confessed to purchasers that the eggs of this price were of the cold storage variety, but contended that none had been in refrigerators earlier than April, and that they were as good as fresh laid eggs. The action of the housewives' alliance in Philadelphia, and the general movement in other cities to break the egg corner, is said to have much to do with the action of the local dealers.

PRESIDENT TAFT
SAILS FOR PANAMA

Washington, Dec. 19.—Two parties of high Government officials leave tonight for the Panama Canal Zone, to inspect the great work. The first will be headed by President Taft and will include members of his family, Asst. Sec. Beckman Winthrop of the Navy department, and Mrs. Winthrop Sec. and Mrs. Hilles and several others.

The second party is composed of members of Congress, including Senator Peimder and Representatives Sweet of Michigan and Oldfield of Arkansas and their wives. The Presidential party will embark on the new battleship Arkansas at Key West, while the Congressional investigators will set sail on the regular steamship from New York.

The Presidential party is due to arrive at Colon on the day before Christmas and the President will spend three full days in looking over the work. It is expected that he will proffer to Col. George W. Goethals, as a kind of Christmas gift, the post of Governor of the Canal Zone. The impression is general that the canal builder will accept the appointment.

The White House was one of the busiest places in the Capital today, in preparation for the exodus. It will take on an air of somnolency for several days after tonight, however, for the President and his family do not expect to return to it before Dec. 31, or possibly New Year's Day.

PRACTICAL APRONS

An excellent variety of apron to use in doing some kinds of kitchen work are blue denim aprons. They are particularly good when washing and scrubbing and blackening the stove. In the first place denim can be bought very cheap and is everlasting in its wearing qualities. Four and a half yards of denim will make two good sized aprons. If you wear one of these aprons when you are washing you will find how good they are as it takes a long while for water to penetrate the cloth. For the same reason they are good to use when scrubbing. The ordinary gingham apron when blackening the stove is not infrequently ruined by the blacking, which is very likely to get on them and most difficult to get out. The blackening leaves stains. These denim aprons can be worn many times before it is necessary to have them washed. Aprons made of denim not only have the wear and tear on good gingham aprons, which can after the rough work is done be put on fresh and nice, for the remainder of the work, but they save the number of gingham aprons that would be necessary to put in the laundry in order to keep a nice fresh one on hand for use in the day's work.

"FOR PORTSMOUTH AND PORTSMOUTH'S INTERESTS."

Portsmouth, N. H., Friday, December 20, 1912.

Portsmouth's Successful Insurance Company.

Portsmouth is proud of her business institutions and our citizens have watched with much interest the rapid growth of the Granite State Fire Insurance company. This company has, under able management of its officers, forged itself well to the front. New England insurance companies and the insurance journals of the country speak in the highest terms of its management. Portsmouth is proud of this company as it is purely a Portsmouth institution, managed by citizens of this city. The annual election of officers and annual business meeting, held this week, showed a continued increase in business and the men who have been responsible for its success, headed by President Calvin Page, Secretary A. F. Howard and Assistant Secretary John W. Emery, were re-elected. The company is doing business in many western and middle west states and is constantly spreading out.

Christmas Gifts for Navy Yard Foremen.

Our master workmen on the navy yard have received a deserved and substantial increase of pay and coming as it does at the Christmastide it will prove a fine reminder of the holiday season of 1912. There are no more capable a lot of men in the country than the master mechanics at this station and Secretary Meyer, who has been giving the matter of increase his personal attention, has done his men a part of justice that was deserved.

Our New Chief of Police.

The election of M. J. Hurley as chief of police insures Portsmouth of a capable and honest official being at the head of the police department. Mr. Hurley will see that the law is enforced without fear or favor and it will take more than a commission to turn him from his sworn duty. Every citizen of Portsmouth believes Mr. Hurley is the right man in the right place and it will be up to the new chief to prove that they are not mistaken. This paper believes he will do it.

The Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph states there have been so many revelations of grafting and various forms of vice in New York city that it is a pleasing relief to learn of something being done there for public and private welfare. This "something" is a movement having for its object the fireproofing of the Santa Claus whiskers and raiment so freely and numerously worn in the stores of the metropolis. These materials, the authorities insist, must be made non-inflammable, for the protection of those in the vicinity as well as for the wearers of the whiskers and costumes. As nearly every community has a scorched Santa at one time or another during Christmas week, it would be well to extend the non-inflammable precautionary measures to entertainments, both public and private, and thereby prevent painful injuries and, possibly, fatal panics, of which there have been so many in the past. And it is a precaution that should be insisted upon all over the country, as it must be admitted that for once, at least, New York city has set an example worthy of emulation.

The Boston Post says the plans of President Taft, following his retirement from official life at Washington, as announced, are happily consonant with the dignity of the place which he holds and with that which falls by inheritance to our ex-presidents. His acceptance of the chair of professor at Yale University is entirely appropriate. In a broader way, the project of a world tour is admirable. There are precedents for such a period of relaxation. Gen. Grant made his memorable journey in the capacity of a military hero as well as that of an honored administrator. Col. Roosevelt ravaged the wilds of African territory as a mighty hunter picking the spoils of his gun for exhibition in museum collections. President Taft, as now proposed, intends to make the tour of the world as representative of the purpose of universal peace which inspires the American people.

The experience gained by Editor George H. Moses of Concord, on the Balkan battlefields, where he witnessed three battles, should be of inestimable value when the forces led by Generals Worcester and Felker line up for battle at Concord in the early part of the year of 1913.

The Boston Transcript says the country's business, beginning to recover with the great harvests of 1912, is under attack. The political chub is pounding away, not even a breathing spell is allowed. Right at it they go, these reformers in Congress of various kinds and degrees, hitting the head of finance, trade, speculation, albeit the last named is all that the agitators admit they seek to crush.

COURAGE.

Have Courage.

Courage is the art of sitting calmly in your seat without stirring and without getting excited when the Brass Band goes by your house and turns around the corner. Courage steps out of the crowd. It stands alone.

Courage is native Nerve—refined. Courage is neither bulldozing nor bare bluff—it's not related to either. Courage isn't physical merely, but moral—mostly.

Courage is naked Right, put through fire and brought out uncracked and unbroken.

Courage is heartworth making itself felt in deeds. It never waits for chances; it makes chances.

A day without some Courage sprinkled in it is a day little worth while. For Courage makes the Man—and there never was a real man that didn't have Courage.

Courage is a thing born in you—but it is also a thing much lusted by use and cultivation.

Today, tomorrow—and every day—have Courage. It makes the heart glad and the soul strong. It starts smiles in the system and stirs up the kind of circulation in a man that makes him go out and do his best at the most humble undertaking.

You can never fall if you have Courage—but you can never win without it.

Have COURAGE!

POLICE SITUATION.

Editorial Comments from the State Press on Local Muddle.

Some weeks when criticism was made of the conduct of the police department of Portsmouth, to the effect that the criminal laws were being violated in the knowledge of the members of the department. City Marshal Entwistle issued a public statement substantially admitting the fact, giving as his defence that such a situation was in accord with the approved public policy. The implication to say the least was that conduct against which stringent legislation existed, and for which heavy penalties were provided, was being practiced with the knowledge and sanction of officials who had taken solemn oath to enforce all laws and were being paid from the public treasury to do so. It was an indefensible position for a public official to admit, and one most demoralizing to the public service. It was an attitude in bold defiance of the law, by a man at the head of the department whose special function is law enforcement.

To such a challenge the citizens of Portsmouth with the demand that the head of the department sever his connection therewith, to which demand he declared he would not yield. The question involved was virtually made an issue in the current local political campaign upon which the popular verdict was unmistakably pronounced. Meanwhile steps were taken looking to the removal of the official from the position which he declared he would not voluntarily relinquish. At length, it was realized that his attitude was untenable, and the resignation was tendered and promptly accepted. It was the only reasonable way out of a bad situation while it is true that it has been found from time to time impossible to completely enforce all the laws upon the books, there is no other course for prosecuting officers to follow than to do their best constantly for their enforcement. Undoubtedly the force of the agitation at Portsmouth will ensure them to be reorganized there to scrupulously and sincerely maintain such attitude.—Manchester Union.

At last they have succeeded in getting the resignation of Tom Entwistle as city marshal at Portsmouth, but Tom, who is a member of the Governor's Council, has succeeded in preventing the confirmation of the man chosen by the good government committee of Portsmouth as the successor of the removed commissioner. The voters of this district made a bad slip in the election of 1910 when they allowed Entwistle to get in as councillor to represent this district.—Rochester Courier.

SPECIAL BREW OF BEER

The Portsmouth Brewing Co. is one of the best known in the state and the lager which they have just placed on the market will especially appeal to the holiday trade. Lovers of good beer will find this very much to their liking.

EMERSON SAYINGS

PROGRESS

BECAUSE the soul is progressive it never quite repeats itself, but in every act attempts the production of a new and fairer whole. The infallible index of true progress is found in the tone the man takes. Neither his age, nor his breeding, nor his company, nor books, nor actions, nor talent, nor all together, can hinder him from being deferential to a higher spirit than his own. If he has not found his home in God, his manners, his forms of speech, the turn of his sentences, the build, shall I say, of all his opinions will involuntarily confess it; let him brave it out as he will. If he has found his centre, the Deity will shine through him through all the disguises of ignorance, of ungainly temperament, of unfavorable circumstances. The tone of seeking is one, and the tone of having is another.

BLANCHARD IS FREE.

Peculiar Case of Exeter Man Charged With Bigamy.

Fred Blanchard of Exeter, who was arrested last August on the charge of bigamy, and whose case was tried on Wednesday, will by the decree of the court be a free man for the Christmas holidays. The case was taken from the jury and the defendant released.

The story is a long and interesting one, yet somewhat complicated. Upon the marriage of Mr. Blanchard to Ida Leclair a warrant was made out charging him with bigamy and he was held for the grand jury at the October term, the continuation being five months, and all the time he declares that he was an innocent man.

Following the case a divorce proceeding began by Fannie Blanchard, his wife was heard, in which evidence was produced by Mrs. Blanchard to show that at the time she married Fred she had another husband living who was employed at a coal yard on Troy street in Boston. Divorce was not allowed by the court and the case was taken under advisement. The Blanchards were married at Hyde Park, Mass., in 1900, and have lived in Exeter for several years.

RAILROAD NOTES

A special train carried the students from the St. Paul school at Concord, N. H. on Thursday.

The passenger department of the Boston and Maine road ordered extra equipment from the North Station on Thursday and tomorrow for the accommodation of patrons of their maritime provinces excursion.

The motive power department of the New Haven road received at Station from Readville shops 15 standard passenger engines for extra holiday service.

Another rumor has gained circulation to the effect that the Boston and Maine railroad has another so called "train out." No such train is moving over the lines and the operating department has no plans for anything of the kind.

John Q. Farley, for many years employed by the Boston and Maine, who recently died at Dover was formerly a gateman at the Third street crossing, and a past president of the local branch of Brotherhood of Railroad Station Employees.

The Boston and Maine is selling tickets from this city to certain points in the provinces at a very low rate during the holiday season.

The committee representing the Order of Railroad Telegraphers on the Boston and Maine railroad is holding conferences with General Superintendent William F. Ray, regarding a 15 per cent increase, and an eight hour in nine working shift.

The force at some of the Boston and Maine stations on the Portland Division is being cut down to winter size.

NOW IT'S THE SOLDIERS

Army Men May Give the Local Team a Pull

Now the soldiers at Fort Constitution are getting strong and believe they can do some fancy pulling on a tug of war rope against the teams of this city. The men of the Portsmouth Brewing Co., who beat out the sailors on Thursday night say that it is up to the army men to come forward with the proper challenge and they will get busy for a pull against anything that can be produced at Fort Constitution. The 156th Company has a lot of good sports in the ranks and if it sends a team to this city to go after the brewery men it will be a good one, and no bunch of strong men will have any walk over in a pull against the coast artillery boys.

THE LOCAL NEWSPAPER.

Are you helping your city? The local newspaper is indispensable to any city or town that has any get-up about it. It is one of the necessities of the arm and business man. It puts the call in motion when any new enterprise is proposed that would be a benefit to the town and the community in which it is published. It keeps an eye on every move that is calculated to help the people. It keeps a record of the happenings of the town and the surrounding country, and is read a thousand miles away by persons who are hunting a home and a place to invest their money. It booms your town and gives it a name abroad that it would otherwise not have. It points out the advantages of its town and county so that the world may see it, and when a man gets mad it takes a "cooling" as coolly as anybody, but hews straight to the line just the same. There are thousands of reasons why every city should support a newspaper, but the greatest of all is because it pays and pays well to support it.

The Herald is doing for Portsmouth what no combination of men can do and it keeps it up 312 days in the year. Get aboard and boost Portsmouth.

Among the transfers recorded is that of the Call homestead at Pleasant and Court streets to Woodbury Langdon. Mr. Langdon has given the building to the Portsmouth Cottage hospital for use as a nurses' home. He has enclosed the property with a high board fence that will be displaced in the spring with an iron fence.

Jennie E. Emery, administratrix of the estate of her mother, Mrs. Mary A. Horne, has transferred the homestead at the corner of Atkinson and Court streets to her sister, Mrs. Florence A. Brewster, wife of Charles H. Brewster. Harry M. Tucker has sold 7500 square feet of land in Broad street to Benjamin F. Webster and Lorenzo S. Leavitt has sold his Prospect park lots to Frederick P. Parsons. Councilman Clement S. Waterhouse has sold his new tenement at the rear of the old Goodwin mansion on Islington street to Mrs. Annie Silver, formerly of Greenland.

THE UNITED STATES AND THE UNITED WORLD

The Hon. Edwin D. Mead of Boston
Heard Before Y. M. C. A. Business Men's Supper.

Edwin D. Mead, the noted leader of the Peace Movement, was the speaker before the Y. M. C. A. business men's supper on Thursday evening and he proved to be the most brilliant talker that has been heard here for a long time. His subject was one that he is not only an authority on, but one that he is completely wrapped up in, and his talk carried conviction.

Mr. Mead who is the Director of the World Peace Foundation in Boston spoke upon the United States and the United World. He said in opening that the commanding cause of our time is the war against war, as the commanding cause of the time past before us was the war against slavery. Somebody has said that as the duty of Lincoln's generation was to put a stop to man's selling, the duty now is to put a stop to man's killing. In the great work of substituting the system of war by the system of peace, the United States has a unique and an important part. Washington, Jefferson and Franklin the founders of the American republic were the most illustrious group of men in their day, who impounded the war system. And the speaker illustrated this point by various references to their writings. Jay's treaty with Great Britain during Washington's administration was the first important treaty in history providing for arbitration; and from that time to this we have had the world in settling our differences with other nations by arbitration. Our federal constitution itself is based upon principles which are precisely the principles that we need to apply to world affairs to give us precisely the kind of organized world that we want. This family of states with its Supreme Court is an anti-type of the world.

The peace movement as an organized movement began here. The first peace societies in the world were those of New York and Massachusetts, organized in 1815; and from these two American centres the movement has spread around the world, until at last we see the representatives of all governments meeting in Hague Conference to organize the family of nations as we have organized the family of states.

The nation is the largest unit which we have yet got organized; the peace movement is the effort to similarly organize the world. It means simply the growth of law, the provision to settle disputes between nations, precisely as we settle them between our states.

With the growth of law the habit of war gradually disappears. There was not half as much war in the 19th century as in the 18th century, and there will not be half as much in the 20th as in the 19th.

The international leaders, in the world are some time reproached with being dreamers, but the only trouble with them in the last 15 years is that they have not been able to dream fast enough to keep up with the facts.

An international tribunal has been established with a dozen cases already settled by it; more than a hundred arbitration treaties between different pairs of nations have been ratified; and as the Hague Conference becomes regular they will gradually become an international parliament, the official representatives of all nations meeting as regularly to confer upon the mutual interest of the nations as our Congress meets at Washington to confer on the mutual interest of our states. As this organization becomes complete and solid and gains the confidence of the peoples, the machinery for the settlement of disputes by fighting will fade away. It is the duty of serious men to hasten the process.

Mr. Mead arranged sharply the present system of great armaments, giving startling figures as to the burden of these upon the different nations.

Seventy per cent of our own national tax alone now goes to pay the expenses of past war, and preparation for possible future wars, leaving only ten per cent for all constructive purposes. This said Mr. Mead in his speech, and he urged a more serious consideration of the moral use of our resources. He rejoiced in the great development at this time of attention to the subject in our schools and colleges; and he read all religious ministers heard him to more courageous effort to translate their religion into political action. A New Hampshire peace society has been recently organized and he hoped that it would receive large increase in its membership from Portsmouth. He paid warm tribute to William Lloyd of Portsmouth and Noah Worcester, both sons of New Hampshire, who in the first half of the last century were great pioneers in the movement which has now become the commanding movement in our time.

Boston, Dec. 20.—The first trial in this part of the country of the method of teaching by educational motion pictures is to be made, if plans are carried through, at one of the Cambridge schools which has a large attendance of foreigners. It is hoped that the pictures will attract the foreign literates into the school and hold their interest, thus inspiring them to study. The first lessons include such historical subjects as Washington crossing the Delaware, the battle of Bunker Hill, and other important events. If these prove successful, the scope will be enlarged to include studies by motion picture of zoology, botany, travel, manufacturing and preparation of commercial staples. The new plan is to be put into operation shortly after Christmas and if it proves to be a success will undoubtedly be made a permanent feature of this and other schools.

A unique social organization has recently been formed among the young people of the Back Bay. One young woman who has been interested in the problem of the thousands of students and others, strangers in the city, occupying hall bedrooms in which they are obliged to stay or else take lonely walks of recreation without congenial companionship, devised the scheme of forming an Acquaintance club, the purpose of which should be to bring young people together under proper auspices and through formal introduction. Twelve young men and twelve young women recently met at the first social of the club, all strangers, both to each other and in Boston, and all engaged in some sort of occupation in schools or stores. It is predicted that a number of romances may spring from this club, although the founder distinctly denies that it has anything of the nature of a marriage bureau. There is plenty of room for many organizations of the same character in this city of students, and the outcome of the experiment will be watched with interest.

The Englishman is not always as impervious to humor, after all. A Boston newspaper quotes the following incident, which seems good enough to pass along. The story was told originally by Professor William Lyor Phelps of Yale at a recent banquet in his city. "We'll try one on this man," said Prof. Phelps' friend, pointing to an Englishman who sat nearby. Whereupon he accosted the Englishman and told him a truly side-splitting yarn, but the subject of their discussion never moved a muscle.

"Come," said the American, somewhat testily, "you'll laugh at that next summer." The Englishman removed his monocle, "I think not," he said. "Why not?" "I laughed at that last summer."

A pretty picture of a domestic mill-lin was painted by Mrs. Olaf Gullin, formerly chairman of the home economics committee of the National Federation of Women's clubs, in an address before the students of Simmons college. The housewife of the new future, whose main object in life is to make her husband happy, will have earned just how to do her work so as not to be all worn out and cross at night when he comes home and have solved the problems of the cost of living and domestic service. She will have an ideal kitchen so compact that stove, sink, cupboard and work table are all within reach of a revolving stool. Her dinner will be served in part on glazed paper plates which may be thrown away after using. It will be cooked in an electric fireless cooker, and eaten on a table with a revolving center piece which carries the condiments to each member of the family without bother to each other. A little three decked affair at the left of the hostess will hold fresh dishes and receive the soiled ones after each course. Joining away with the necessity of a waitress. Other incidentals of this ideal existence are an electric washing and ironing machine, a vacuum cleaner, automatic brush and waxer for her hardwood floors, which she has in the kitchen as well as the drawing room. She will wear dainty crepe underwear which needs no ironing; will clean her silver by placing it in a pan and boiling it with a chemical, will cleanse her clothes by soaking them in gasoline and having a woman come in to finish the operation—and will do all the other things which go to make scientific management in the home. Thus she will be able to devote herself to her husband and children and still have leisure for profitable recreation and all without the worry and expense of a maid. At least, so says Mrs. Gullin. May she not prove to have been Mrs. Gullin.

Notes of the Match
The Accounting champions "came back" once more, and rolled in good form, playing the game safely all the way.

The "Joys" certainly had it on the gloom, which was as it should be, of course.

The Hull "goat" had a little parade during the first string, which was enjoyed by the large gallery.

Fernald was the only Hull bowler who seemed to be able to hit the pins. Hett and Fernald had a close battle for individual honors, the latter winning out by a single pin.

By their defeat, Hull Division dropped to 500 in the percentage column. Lynas did some very timely work in the final string.

Accounting is keeping close to the General Store leaders.

VOCATIONAL LABOR GOOD FOR SCHOOLS

Washington, Dec. 19.—Vocational training in the public schools can be undertaken not only without cost to the taxpayer, but may be made a source of actual profit, according to Commissioner Claxton of the Federal Bureau of Education today.

In making a plea for the extension of industrial education, Dr. Claxton cited the experience of the industrial classes in the schools of Gary, Ind., in the past year. They showed a profit through the work turned out by the pupils of $375.43 over all expenses.

"This is real value, too," said Dr. Claxton. "For the pupils made articles that were needed in the schools. If they had not made them in the school, the authorities would have had to purchase them in the open market at a total price of seven or eight thousand dollars."

The profits returned were divided among three classes: that in printing earned for the schools $175.43; the cabinet workers made $135.48, and the painting department $245.62.

ENGLISH LORD OFFERS SERVICES TO BOY SCOUTS

Washington, Dec. 19.—Directors of the Boy Scouts of the District of Columbia are puzzled today just how to reply to Lord Sutherland Percy, third secretary of the British embassy, who has offered his services to the local Boy Scouts Brigade. It is believed to be the first time that a British Peer has sought actively to join in the semimilitary training of the youth of another country.

Lord Percy contends, however, that the spirit of militarism should not prevail in the organization, but that the movement should be for the physical and moral and mental training of the boys of every country. In Great Britain, where the movement originated, the Boy Scouts are semimilitary.

It is altogether likely that the British diplomat will be appointed scout master in the local organization.

CEGAR FOR LEAD PENCILS

Considerable Part of World's Supply Is Cut in Missouri

The wood for all the lead pencils in the world comes from this country and a great part of it is cut in the Ozark hills of Missouri. One variety of wood, red cedar, is used for lead pencils. Many other different kinds of wood have been tried, but none were satisfactory. The red cedar of the Ozark hills possesses all the qualities needed in a lead pencil.

Wood that will warp in drying will not do for a lead pencil, and red cedar never warps. Wood that has a coarse grain will never do, either, because a prime requisite of lead pencil wood is that it be very fine grained and just the right degree of brittleness to cling close to the lead and whittle easily. The heart of the red cedar has all these requisites, and it has another that no other wood has, and that is a pleasant pungent odor.

In Branson, Mo., on the banks of the White river, is a mill that cuts cedar logs into proper lengths for lead pencils. The cedar grows on the rocky hillsides all through the White river district of Missouri. They are small, stunted trees seldom reaching a diameter of more than a foot at the butt. The cedar grows on the rocky hillside and sent to the mill or floated in rafts down the river. At the mill the logs are first cut lengthwise by circular saws into planks. These are cut into right lengths for lead pencils, and these chunks go into the hands of men, who with circular saws rip them up into what is called slats.

Only the red heart of these big logs is used. The white sap wood is thrown away. The slats are used each the same thickness, a trifle over an eighth of an inch, and of the same length 7-14 inches, but they vary in width from seven eighths of an inch to two and three inches, according to what the clear sound wood is. The plank will allow.

The slats are bound in bundles and sent to New York, where the greater part are worked up into lead pencils. Factories in Germany and other European countries.

The mill in Branson each day ships enough slats to make a quarter million pencils, and there are about 15 other mills in five different states that are in the same business. The mill in Branson is one of the smallest of them all, though it employs 40 persons.

In the factories where the pencils are finished the slats go through a machine that smooths the side, that is to be glued to another half, that planes the hexagon or outside half, and that cuts the groove in which the lead is to lie. Another machine applies the glue and then the lead is dropped in and the two halves of wood pressed together until dry.

The refuse wood from the pencil factories in Branson is used by the people there for firewood, and on cold, still, mornings when the town fires are a-bright, the odor of smoke from the red cedar perfumes the air like incense from a censor.

THE MANNISH MODEL

The young girls are finding the mannish skirts made of striped plaid or washable silk or crepe de chine very much in their liking. Most of the models are absolutely mannish in the severity of their lines.

This, however, appeals to the girl who likes to exhibit the latest fad of fashion. Those who dislike the plainness add a label of lace or a bow at the neck line, but the majority prefer the "wear the blouse" as it is, with a simple fastening of buttons down the front.

TURKEY HANGING OUT FOR BETTER TERMS

London, Dec. 19.—Whether peace is likely to be declared between Turkey and the Balkan allies, or whether the war shall be continued is expected to be settled within 48 hours. In diplomatic circles in London the opinion prevails that, if the thorny obstacles which are likely to present themselves at the sessions of the peace conference in St. James' Palace today and tomorrow can be surmounted or circumvented, peace will be assured.

The revictualing of the Turkish fortresses of Adrianople, on which the Turks are reported to insist as a condition to the waiving of their demand that Greece should sign the armistice, is a most troublesome point, and if the Turks maintain their attitude it will indicate that they are still firm on the subject of the retention of the fortress after the war.

It is thought here that should Turkey carry her point in regard to revictualing the garrison at Adrianople it would imply that the possession of that fortress would ultimately remain with the Turks.

As soon as the question of Greek participation in the peace conference shall have been settled, if that is possible, the demands of the allies will be unfolded and a crucial stage will have been reached, when the good offices of the Powers may be needed. Without outside mediation it appears impossible now to bridge the gulf dividing the minimum demands of the allied Balkan Nations and the maximum offer of the Turks, if these demands and this offer are to be accepted at their face values.

The ambassadors of the great European Powers will meet Sir Edward Grey at the British Foreign Office tomorrow afternoon and then adjourn until after Christmas.

Plenipotentiaries Reassemble.—The peace plenipotentiaries representing the Balkan Allies and the Turkish Empire reassembled at 4 this afternoon in St. James' Palace.

They had not met since Tuesday when an adjournment was taken for the purpose of permitting the Ottoman representatives to communicate with their Government at Constantinople on the subject of the admission of the Greek delegates to the conference.

The peace plenipotentiaries were in session at St. James' Palace today for only about three quarters of an hour. Then Rechad Pasha and Salih Pasha hurriedly left the palace and went to their hotel. They refused to give reporters any information.

It was later announced that the peace conference had adjourned until 4 p. m. on Saturday.

The Turkish delegates stated that they are not yet in possession of their full instructions or their new credentials, which have been dispatched from Constantinople by special courier and that the conference had decided it must await their arrival and consequently adjourned.

The new credentials awaited by the Turks are necessitated by changes in their instructions regarding negotiations with the Greek delegates.

According to a news agency dispatch received here from Constantinople the Ottoman Government has authorized its delegates in the peace conference to propose at the next session that Adrianople and all the other besieged Turkish towns shall be revictualled, and if the proposal is not accepted by the delegates of the Balkan allies, negotiations are to be broken off.

Premier Venizelos of Greece presided today over the deliberations of the conference. An official communication issued in connection with the session says that after the approval of the minutes of the second meeting, "Teched Pasha announced that a special messenger had left Constantinople carrying the instructions which had been asked for."

TAFT PARDONS A "MOONSHINER."

Washington, Dec. 19.—President Taft today pardoned Henry Nelson of Owensboro, Ky., recently sentenced to the penitentiary for moonshining distilling in the mountains of Kentucky. The reason for the pardon was that Nelson is expected to live only a short time and he wanted to spend his last Christmas on earth at home.

W. C. T. U. WORKERS SCATTER

They Gave a Banquet Last Evening to Senator Kenyon, Author of the Bill They Advocated.

Washington, Dec. 19.—Nearly 40 temperance workers from throughout the United States, who have been here to urge the passage of legislation prohibiting shipments of liquor into "dry" territory, scattered for their homes today to work toward the raising of a fund of $500,000 in yearly installments of $100,000 for the inauguration of a Nation-wide crusade.

The workers had been in session two days, the conference closing with a banquet last night at which Senator Kenyon of Iowa, author of the legislation sought, was the principal speaker.

B. & M. OFFICIALS BEFORE FEDERAL GRAND JURY

New York, Dec. 19.—The Federal Grand Jury investigation of the New Haven Grand Trunk alleged monopoly agreement extended today to the possible interest of the Boston and Maine Railroad in the situation. William F. Berry, vice president of the Boston & Maine testified. He was the first of the Boston & Maine officials to do so.

Other witnesses were David O. Ives, transportation expert of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, and Benjamin Campbell, vice president of the New Haven, who has already testified at considerable length in the investigation. Gen. Hugh Bancroft, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Port of Boston, is under subpoena, but it was thought unlikely that he would be called today.

LOOKING FOR CANAL TRADE

Washington, Dec. 19.—Forecasting a rapid increase in traffic on the west coast of South America on the completion of the Panama Canal shipping interests on that side of the continent are making elaborate preparations to command it, according to a report from American Consul Alfred Winslow at Valparaiso, Chile, made public today by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

Valparaiso alone, says the consul, is making ready to spend $15,000,000 on its harbor. A number of lines, many of them plying directly from South American ports to European ports, will build vessels to care for the western coast traffic through the canal, and, according to Mr. Winslow, are planning to route their vessels by way of the New York, or possibly some more southerly port in the United States.

The Chilean congress now is considering, Mr. Winslow adds, the grant of subsidies for the establishment of lines to ply through the canal. A Chilean steamship corporation has offered to put on a line between Valparaiso and Europe, by way of Panama and New York, on a guaranty by the Government of 6 per cent return on the investment. Congress says the consul, probably will authorize the grant.

HIGHER TABLE MANNERS

Diners With the Knack of all the Fine Points are Few

Speaking of table manners, there is too much unskilled labor in this profession and too little trained and accredited work. It has been the deplorable custom in the past to admit to the ranks of diners mere tyro whose knowledge of their trade went no further than a few easy lessons on "Why the knife should not be allowed to endanger the features." Don't appear at the table without a collar when company is present, and "It is bad form to tie a napkin in a knot behind the neck." Persons who had successfully passed those difficulties, but have proceeded not much further into the mysteries of dining have heretofore been admitted to some of our most spotless napery.

The Kansas City agricultural college has noted this abuse and has resolved to apply a remedy. A course has been designed to instruct students in the classic art of dining gracefully, professionally and as to the manner born. Students holding diplomas from this college will be entitled to admission to the finest tables in the land. Those possessing no such degree may be looked on as rank amateurs by all professional diners. In other words, dining is at last to be standardized. Students will presumably be taught how to carve a duck without ruining a shirt front; how to eat an orange without first donning a bathing suit; how to crack a lobster without blinding one's hostess; how to open champagne without destroying one's credit. These graduates will know the number of forks properly used for the dissection of a pate de foie gras, the number of times in succession one may accept invitations to the same house. These and a hundred things they learn—things that mark a diner as an aristocrat or a mere dabbler.

It is fitting that this movement for the improvement of dinner guests should start in Missouri. The state that demands to be shown will now show the rest from Missouri may yet come the man who can teach the Parisian how to drip his absinthe, the Bostonian how to drape his serviette, the Londoner how to carve his joint, the Chicagoan how to pick his teeth—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

VICTORY FOR THE TURKS

Commander at Janina Reports Having Inflicted a Severe Defeat on the Greek Army.

Constantinople, Dec. 19.—A great victory by the Turkish troops over the Greek Army near Janina on Sunday has been reported by the Turkish commander there in a telegram to the War Office. He says that 1400 Greeks were killed and 110 wounded.

Several field guns, numerous rifles and a quantity of equipment were captured by the Turks.

The Council of Ministers, after consideration of the question of the admission of Greece to the peace conference, sent fresh instructions to the Ottoman delegates at London. The nature of the instructions has not been divulged, but it is reported that the Porte has instructed the delegates to negotiate with the Greeks even if they do not sign the armistice.

The degree team from Alpha Council, Royal Arcanum, No. 83, will go to Concord this evening, and work before the Granite State Council, No. 1043. The grand officers will be present and the degree team. Captain F. T. Harriman, degree master, will be the guest of the grand officers.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO NAVY YARD EMPLOYEES

They Certainly Looked Good

The fine appearance of the men from the United States Ship San Francisco in the tug of war contest on Thursday evening at Freeman's Hall, was certainly attractive to the spectators and are without doubt the finest looking lot of men, stripped for any athletic event pulled off here in years.

More Men for Pearl Harbor

On the completion of the marine barracks at Pearl Harbor Hawaii, for which $185,000 was appropriated by Congress in 1909 the force of marines there will be greatly enlarged. The barracks will be ready for occupancy about June 30, 1913. The strength of the marine detachment now at Pearl Harbor is seven officers and 164 men.

May Go the Equipment

In connection with the report of the changes to take place later it is said that the department of public works may be located in the Equipment building.

Vessel Movements.

The Nashville has arrived at Santo Domingo City, the Potomac at Norfolk, the Brutus at Gibraltar, the Standish at Annapolis, the Cheyenne at Bremer-ton and the Newark, Sonoma and Ontario at Norfolk.

The Prairie has sailed from Philadelphia for Cristobal to bring back United States marines from service in Nicaragua. The Wheeling from Guantanamo to Savannah, the Ontario from Norfolk for Newport, the Rhinols from Boston for Philadelphia.

Safe at San Domingo.

The battleship New Hampshire, which was dispatched to Dominican waters, in the hope that its "moral effect" would prevent a recurrence of the revolution which recently subsided there has reported her safe arrival at Santo Domingo City.

The Frisco Pet Dog.

An example of the canine intelligence is displayed in "Bum," the pet dog of the San Francisco, in his answering to all huge calls aboard that vessel. The crew got the animal at Norfolk and no amount of money could purchase their pet. He is strictly a sailor's dog and his shipmates say that no member of the crew realizes the different calls with more activity or knowledge than the animal.

Fire Quarters Today.

Fire quarters from box 32 was sounded this forenoon and a lively drill by the yard fire department was the result. The marine guard were back on the ladder truck and in great trim for ladder work. Their quick arrival on the scene was also noted.

To Use Steel Piling.

Steel piling such as was used in building the coffer dam around the old battleship Maine will be used in the work of building the water intake from the power plant to the water front. Never before has the government had occasion to utilize material of this kind in any work at this station.

Bids for the Big Sea Fighter.

Bids for the building of the largest battleship of the navy, the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, will be opened on Feb. 18 in the department at Washington.
